I therefore preferred the nomination of a new man, such as William McKinley, but he had committed himself to Harrison, and, according to my code of honor, could not accept a nomination even if tendered him:" Garfield's Cabinet Formation.

Relating to the formation of Garfield's cabinet he says:

"In the latter part of November, 1880, General Garfield came to Washington and called upon Mr. Blaine, who, it was under-stood, was to be Secretary of State. Garstood, was to be Secretary of State. Gar-field came to my house directly from Blaine's, and informed me that he had ten-dered that office to Blaine, and that it was accepted. He said that Blaine thought it would not be politic to continue me as Sec-retary of the Treasury, as it would be re-garded as an unfriendly discrimination by other members of Hayes' cabinet. I prompt-ly replied that I agreed with the opinion of Blaine, and was a candidate for the Sen-ate."

IN THE LAW SCHOOLS.

Recent Happenings Among Students The law schools are now fairly started on the year's work. Usually a number of students are registered after the term begins, and it is almost impossible to get the classes in shape and commence work in earnest until the middle of October. The National has this year, in recognition of the growing importance of the subject of patent law, associated with its course the "Patent Office Law Association," an organization which, for the past two years, has been conducting a r for the trial of patent cases. Mr. Philip Mauro, has been engaged as lecturer on the jurisdiction and practice of the courts the jurisdiction and practice of the courts and judge of the moot court. Only graduates in law and members of the bar who are already familiar with the substantive law of patents are admitted to membership, the preference being given to graduates of the National. The course was inaugurated Wednesday night with a preliminary lecture by Mr. Mauro.

A meeting of the senior class was held last week, at which the class organization was effected. The following officers were elected: President, Arthur B. Shelton; vice president, Arnold H. Graves; secretary, Allan M. Johnson; treasurer, John F. Bartlett. At a meeting of the class Wednesday night a debating society was organized, to be under the control of the executive committee of the class. F. S. Key Smith was chosen critic.

At Columbian Judge Harlan gave his introductory lecture on constitutional law Saturday of last week. It had been expected that Judge Harlan's lectures before the junior class would begin this week, but it is announced that his first lecture to the juniors will be given Monday night.

The debating society held its first meeting last Saturday night, and elected officers as follows: President, Guy Underwood; vice president, Jesse P. Crawford; secretary, Thomas M. Greer; treasurer, James L. Ccusar, and chairman of the executive committee, F. H. Moore.

In Memoriam. MILLER. In loving remembrance of my dear son, FRANCIS J. MILLER, who died four years ago today, October 19, 1891. Oddy, October 19, 1891.
There is grief that cannot find comfort
And wounds that cannot be healed,
And sorrows so deep in the human heart
That cannot be half revealed.
BY HIS MOTHER, ANNIE M. MILLER,

STELLO. In memoriam of our beloved one, Lila LIE E. STELLO, who died one year ago today, October 19, 1894.

May she rest in peace. BY HER MOTHER AND BROTHERS.
